

St. Teresa of Avila

Catholic Church

Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time
August 14, 2011

Observe what is right, do what is just;
for my salvation is about to come,
my justice, about to be revealed.

— Isaiah 56:1

Parish Mission Statement

The Saint Teresa of Avila Parish is a diverse Catholic community of faith that embraces everyone, without exception. We see ourselves as uniquely able to engage in dialogue with people of all faiths and act as peacemakers in our city. Challenged by the Gospel, nourished by the Eucharist and inspired by the teachings of Saint Teresa of Avila, we are called to be witnesses of Christ's Love, for the salvation of all people.

Inside or Outside?

In today's Gospel the Canaanite woman persists in pleading with Jesus to heal her child. Jesus himself had been focusing his mission only on the Jewish people. Confronted by a Canaanite woman, he seems baffled, but he cannot ignore her. Jesus says that her faith is equal to that of any of the Jews and rewards her by healing her daughter. Matthew wrote his Gospel for a community of Jewish Christians who saw Jesus as the longed-promised Messiah for the Jews. They saw the Christian faith attracting people of other races and religions and must have struggled to make this fit with their image of a Messiah destined to save Israel. The story of Jesus and the Canaanite woman offers them a clue. Jesus is challenged to heal "the outsider," and his initial reluctance gives way in the face of her outstanding faith. The new Jewish Christian community saw that God plants faith in "outsiders" and that faith, not background, opens the doors into the Kingdom.

Living Stewardship Now

People come to the Church because God calls them. Try volunteering in the parish ministry for people seeking to become Catholic (RCIA), or in a ministry welcoming Catholics who left the Church and want to come home.

¿De Adentro o de Afuera?

En el Evangelio de hoy la mujer cananea persiste en su súplica a Jesús para que cure a su hija. Pero Jesús ha enfocado su misión solamente en el pueblo judío y parece desconcertado al verse confrontado por la mujer cananea, pero no puede ignorarla. Jesús dice que la fe de esta mujer es igual a la de cualquier judío y la recompensa curándole a su hija. Mateo escribió su Evangelio para una comunidad judeo-cristiana que veía en Jesús al tan esperado Mesías de los judíos. Ellos también se daban cuenta de que la fe cristiana atraía a personas de otras razas y religiones, y debieron haber batallado al tratar de conjugar eso con la imagen de un Mesías destinado a salvar a Israel. La historia de Jesús y la mujer cananea les ofrecen una pista. Jesús se ve desafiado para curar a una persona "de afuera" y, después de su rechazo inicial, transige ante la fe extraordinaria de la mujer. La nueva comunidad judío-cristiana vio que Dios siembra la fe en los "de afuera", y que es la fe, y no el origen o los antecedentes lo que abre las puertas del reino.

La Corresponsabilidad Vivida Ahora

Las personas vienen a la Iglesia porque Dios las llama. Trata de servir en un ministerio parroquial que reciba y ayude a las personas que quieren ser católicas (el RICA) o en algún ministerio que abre las puertas a los católicos que, habiéndose alejado de la Iglesia, quieren regresar.

Why Pray?

The “foreigners” as Isaiah calls them, the “Gentiles” as Paul calls them, or the “Canaanites” as Matthew calls them are called to worship the one true God in prayer. As we listen to today’s readings, perhaps we are tempted to ask: Why pray? The question is rhetorical; it is tantamount to asking why should friends talk to one another or people in love kiss one another.

Prayer is a way of relating to God, a way of talking to God. The apostles had the opportunity to talk to Jesus in the flesh. We have the opportunity to talk to Jesus Christ in prayer. Our relationship with him must be enthusiastic; it cannot be faint-hearted. John Donne, a fifteenth-century poet, knew what the qualities of good prayer were. Donne asks God to treat him differently from most Christians. The poet does not want God to merely “knock, breathe, shine, and seek to mend,” but also to “break, blow, burn, and make me new” (Holy Sonnets, XIV).

It takes a dynamic faith on our part to come to God in prayer. As Jesus once said, “Knock and the door will be opened to you” (Matthew 7:7). It may take pounding the door down, but if we are as persistent as the woman in today’s Gospel, the results will follow. — © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

The Shape of the Eucharistic Prayer

Our Eucharistic Prayers originated in the traditional Jewish meal prayers known as berakah, which were prayers of thanksgiving used at meals. Over the centuries, the Christian thanksgiving, or Eucharist, gradually took shape. While in the East the Eucharistic Prayers (called anaphora) took many forms, in the Roman Church there was for many centuries just one Eucharistic Prayer, called the Roman Canon (now known as Eucharistic Prayer I). Almost all Eucharistic Prayers include the same basic elements. They begin with thanksgiving and acclamation. Then there is an epiclesis, as the priest calls down the Holy Spirit upon the gifts. Then follows the institution narrative and consecration, as the words that Jesus spoke at the Last Supper are repeated. After the consecration, we remember in an explicit way all that Christ has done for us—this is the anamnesis, or remembering. The prayer concludes with the offering, the intercessions—prayers for the Church, our leaders, ourselves—and a final doxology of praise.

The reforms of the Second Vatican Council enriched our liturgy with additional Eucharistic Prayers, including both ancient texts (Eucharistic Prayer II is based on the most ancient of all existing Eucharistic Prayers) and new compositions. — Corinna Laughlin, © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

¿Por Qué Rezar?

Los “extranjeros” que Isaías menciona, los “gentiles” de que habla Pablo, o los “cananeos” que cita Mateo son llamados a adorar en oración al verdadero Dios. Al escuchar las lecturas de hoy, tal vez nos sintamos tentados a preguntarnos: ¿Por qué rezar? Es una pregunta retórica; se equipara a preguntar por qué han de hablarse los amigos o los enamorados besarse.

Rezar es una manera de relacionarnos con Dios, una manera de hablarle. Los apóstoles tuvieron la oportunidad de conversar en persona con Jesús encarnado. Nosotros tenemos la oportunidad de hablar con Dios en la oración. Nuestra relación con él debe ser entusiasta; no puede ser pusilánime. John Donne, un poeta y sacerdote inglés del siglo XV, supo cuáles eran la cualidades de una buena oración. Donne le pide a Dios que lo trate de manera diferente que a la mayoría de los cristianos. El poeta no quiere que Dios meramente “golpee, aliente, brille y repare”, sino que también “rompa, sople, quemé y me haga nuevo” (Holy Sonnets, XIV).

Se requiere una fe dinámica de nuestra parte para venir a Dios en oración. Como dijo Jesús una vez: “Toca a la puerta y se te abrirá” (Mateo 7:7). Tal vez requiera golpear la puerta hasta tumbarla, pero si perseveramos al igual que la mujer del Evangelio de hoy, veremos los resultados. — © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

El Misterio de Fe

El vocablo griego mysterion, no significa lo mismo que misterio en castellano. La palabra griega no describe algo imposible de entenderse, sino algo totalmente inagotable, infinito, que entre más se entiende o se vive, más consciente se es de su infinitud. Por ello es que la Eucaristía es un misterio, no en cuanto que no se pueda entender el ritmo y carácter de la celebración, o la presencia de Cristo en las acciones del pan y el vino, sino porque al entender la grandeza de Dios y su presencia en el sacramento, no agotamos esa infinita riqueza. Así pues, este misterio no es algo que sólo deba ser contemplado o aclamado; este misterio ha de vivirse diariamente por cada persona que lo ha celebrado. Los cristianos de los primeros siglos nos lo recuerdan: “no podemos ser cristianos sin la Eucaristía”. No podemos ser discípulos de Cristo si no estamos dispuestos a vivir ese misterio en la vida diaria, a compartir el pan con quien tiene hambre y a vivir como Cristo vivió. Esta acción ha de transformarnos en lo que celebramos. — Miguel Arias, © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

Interested in the Catholic Faith?

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) is the process through which interested adults are introduced to the Roman Catholic faith and way of life.

The RCIA process is for the unbaptized who want to join the Catholic Church; and those who have been baptized either Catholic or in another Christian denomination, and want to enter into full communion with the Catholic Church.

RCIA will begin this Fall. If you or someone you know is interested in finding out more about the Catholic faith, please contact Fr. Frank at (773) 528-6650 .

More on Science & Religion

This weekend I am running the Whirlpool Triathlon as a team member; I am only doing the running. I have participated in this event for several years with an associate of mine that I recently learned was a professed atheist. My friend was a God-believing individual at one time in his life and then was converted to atheism by reading the publication American Scientist. "I am a scientist," he says to me. "If it cannot be proven, it does not exist."

I sense that most God-fearing people have a question in the back of their minds about science and their belief. Namely: What if science proved God does not exist? Funny as it seems, this question is not a real big deal to most scientists. In fact, research shows that scientists fall along the same lines as the rest of the population. That is, most scientists believe in a God or higher power or divine source and over 90% of scientist say they pray daily.

This past week we celebrated the feast day of Saint Teresa Benedicta of the Cross (Edith Stein). Edith started her academic career as a hard core professed atheist. Well into her academic career, one of her professors asked her to assist him with research around universal eternal and religious values from a philosophical perspective. This research work lead to her conversion. From there she adopted Christianity, converted to Catholicism and joined the Carmelites after discovering St. Teresa of Avila. Later on in life she actively protested against the practices of the Nazis, tried to save her family from persecution and was eventually put to death in Auschwitz.

I was recently reading an interview with the 14th Dalai Lama who is requesting to retire so that he can dedicate the rest of his life to the spiritual side of his work in the world. The interviewer asked the Dalai Lama what he thought was his greatest accomplishment. I was surprised to read that he believes his greatest accomplishment was advancing the relationship between science and religion. He went on to say that the relationship was invaluable to the advancement of both science and religion, and that they really need each other to move us forward.

Memorial Acclamation

The Memorial Acclamations are part of the Eucharistic Prayer that the priest celebrant and the liturgical assembly pray together. This is important, because those in the liturgical assembly acclaim what the priest celebrant proclaimed in the Eucharistic Prayer. Liturgy is dialogical, that is, it is a dialogue. A proclamation is usually followed by an acclamation. This models our life as disciples. God moves in liturgy, God dwells in our lives and calls us, imperfect as we are, to grow in holiness that only God can give.

The Memorial Acclamation follows the Institution narrative—the words Jesus used at the Last Supper over bread and wine. This acclamation therefore, is our response to God's coming to dwell among us, particularly in the transformation of bread and wine into Christ's Body and Blood. In the revised edition of The Roman Missal, there will now only be three memorial acclamations; the previous edition had four. These there are as follows:

We proclaim your Death, O Lord,
and profess your Resurrection
until you come again.

When we eat this Bread and drink this Cup,
we proclaim your Death, O Lord,
until you come again.

Save us, Savior of the world,
for by your Cross and Resurrection
you have set us free.

All three of these acclamations mention death (in the third acclamation Cross is used that refers to Jesus' death on the Cross) and Resurrection. This is mysterium fidei: "The mystery of faith." We call this, technically, the Paschal Mystery.

By Kristopher W. Seaman

formation. This transformation is God's liberating self given to us through and in Eucharist.

Perhaps the most known Memorial Acclamation is not listed above. "Christ has died, / Christ is risen, / Christ will come again." This particular acclamation was added some time ago by the English speaking bishops' conferences to the Order of Mass. This acclamation is not found in the Latin texts of The Roman Missal and so it will not be included in the revised English translation of this ritual book. The three above are the three choices available.

"The mystery of faith" are the words the priest celebrant will now use in the revised edition of The Roman Missal; rather than "Let us proclaim the mystery of faith." "The mystery of faith" translates quite closely to the Latin: mysterium fidei. Also, this now matches the other proclamations that call for an acclamation by the people. For instance, here are some of the many examples: "The Body of Christ," "The Blood of Christ," "The word of the Lord," "The Gospel of the Lord," and so forth. "The mystery of faith" is not only words that we proclaim, it is also the mystery that we acclaim through living in our daily lives. Transformation offered through liturgy ought to be lived daily in our lives as we die to all that is not of God, and live lives of holiness that builds life for us and for one another. "The mystery of faith."
