of Avila
Catholic Church

Twenty-sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Have in you the same attitude that is also in Christ Jesus.

— Philippians 2:5

Parish Mission Statement

The Saint Teresa of Avila Parish is a diverse Catholic community of faith that embraces everyone, without exception. We see ourselves as uniquely able to engage in dialogue with people of all faiths and act as peacemakers in our city. Challenged by the Gospel, nourished by the Eucharist and inspired by the teachings of Saint Teresa of Avila, we are called to be witnesses of Christ's Love, for the salvation of all people.

Stewardship Matters

September 25 – October 1

Do it now!

Anyone who has ever had to deal with teenagers knows the foot-dragging that can go on over a simple request to do something. “I’ll do it in a minute!” Parents know that adolescent “minutes” can be hours. Jesus tells of a father who asked his sons to work in his vineyard. One said “Later” but did the work; the other said “Yes” but did not. Jesus is not concerned with postponement, but with how people respond to him. Jesus’ disciples were often distracted and misunderstood him. And the so-called “good” Jews would not even listen to Jesus. The people “good” Jews shunned, such as tax collectors and prostitutes, heard Jesus and grasped a great truth: wholeheartedly doing God’s will trumps laws and commandments, and offers freedom and peace of heart. Are you going through the motions of being a Christian, not taking it to heart? What’s dragging at your feet? Become a real disciple today.

Living Stewardship Now

The best way to be a follower of Jesus Christ is to be with other believers. Strengthen your faith by joining a parish group that prays, studies or serves together. Look in the parish bulletin or handbook to find what would suit you best.

¡Hazlo Ahora!

Cualquiera que haya tenido alguna vez que lidiar con adolescentes sabe que arrastran sus pies para hacer algo que se les pida. “¡Lo haré en un minuto!” Los padres saben muy bien que los “minutos” de los adolescentes pueden ser horas. Jesús cuenta de un padre que le pidió a sus hijos que fueron a trabajar en su viña. Un hijo le dijo: “más tarde”, pero fue a hacer el trabajo; el otro le dijo a su padre que sí iría, pero nunca fue. Jesús no está interesado en si las cosas se posponen o no, sino en cómo las personas responden a sus enseñanzas. Los discípulos de Jesús a menudo estaban distraídos y malentendían a su Maestro. Aun los judíos que se autollamaban “buenos” ni siquiera escuchaban a Jesús, pero las personas que esos “buenos” judíos rechazaban, como los cobradores de impuestos y las prostitutas, escuchaban a Jesús y entendieron una gran verdad, esto es, que hacer la voluntad de Dios sin reservas está por encima de leyes y mandamientos, y que además es donde se encuentra la libertad y la paz interior. ¿Eres un cristiano de reglamentos o de corazón? ¿Qué se te hace pesado? Comienza a ser hoy un verdadero discípulo.

La Corresponsabilidad Vivida Ahora

La mejor manera de ser un discípulo de Jesucristo es en compañía de otros creyentes. Fortalece tu fe uniéndote a un grupo parroquial que rece, estudie y sirva. Busca en el boletín o folleto parroquial para ver qué grupo te viene mejor.

"The truly humble person always walks in doubt about his own virtues, and usually those he sees in his neighbor seem more certain and more valuable."

Familiar Insights

Spiritual teachers tend to repeat themselves, and to repeat other teachers. Maybe there really aren't that many different truths to tell. Just a lot of slow, sleepy human beings—like us—who need to hear the basics over and over. Consider today's readings.

People complain God isn't "fair," and Ezekiel answers that God is more than fair. People choose their own fates, and people can change. Even evildoers can turn, do right, and live. "Actions speak louder than words." A fresh new insight? Hardly.

Paul tells the Philippians that he would truly be encouraged if those who claimed to be believers would, in fact, look to others' interests and not their own. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." A novel idea? I don't think so.

In Jesus' story of the farmer and his sons, everyone knows that the one who said he wouldn't work—but did—is way ahead of the one who said he would work—but didn't. "Talk is cheap." Heard that before? — © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

The Lord's Prayer

The Eucharistic Prayer ends with the great "Amen," the acclamation of assent by the assembly. Then the Communion rite begins with the Lord's Prayer. We pray this prayer in many contexts, both inside and outside the Church's liturgy. Here, in the context of the Mass, the Lord's Prayer is profoundly Eucharistic. When we ask for our "daily bread," we are asking for the gift of the Eucharist. When we ask God to forgive us as we forgive others, we are seeking forgiveness and purity of heart before we approach the altar to receive the sacrament of the Lord's Body and Blood—"so that what is holy may, in fact, be given to those who are holy" (General Instruction of the Roman Missal, 81).

At Mass, a prayer for peace is inserted between the prayer and the doxology. In this prayer, called the embolism, the Church asks God for freedom—freedom from sin and all anxiety and distress. We are living in an in-between time; even as we rejoice in Christ's presence, we await his coming in joyful hope. — Corinna Laughlin, © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

Enseñanzas Familiares

Los maestros espirituales suelen repetir sus enseñanzas, y repetir las de otros maestros. Quizás no existen muchas verdades diferentes que decir. Sólo muchos seres humanos lentos y aletargados, como nosotros, que necesitan oír lo básico una y otra vez. Considera, por ejemplo las lecturas de hoy.

La gente se queja de que Dios no es “justo” y Ezequiel responde que Dios es más que justo. Las personas eligen su propio destino, y las personas pueden cambiar. Hasta los malhechores pueden cambiar de rumbo, hacer lo que es justo, y vivir. “Los hechos valen más que las palabras”. ¿Un nuevo discernimiento? Para nada.

Pablo dice a los filipenses que lo llenarían de alegría si los que claman ser creyentes, de hecho, buscan el interés de los otros y no el propio. “Obras son amores y no buenas razones”. ¿Una idea novedosa? No lo creo.

En el relato de Jesús del viñador y sus dos hijos, todos saben que el que dijo que no trabajaría, pero lo hizo le lleva la delantera al que dijo que trabajaría, pero no lo hizo. “Fácil es hablar”. ¿Ya lo oíste antes? — © Copyright, J. S. Paluch Co.

Lecturas de hoy

Primera lectura — Apártate del pecado para que vivas (Ezequiel 18:25-28).

Salmo — Recuerda tus bondades, oh Señor (Salmo 25 [24]).

Segunda lectura — Guarda en ti la misma actitud que está también en Cristo Jesús (Filipenses 2:1-11 [1-5]).

Evangelio — El que obedece al Señor aunque sea con resistencia, es el que hace la voluntad del Padre (Mateo 21:28-32).

Eucaristía y Justicia

Al celebrar la Eucaristía siempre podemos caer en la tentación de desencarnarla de la vida diaria, sobre todo de lo que implique organización social, educación, promoción humana, justicia, en fin, todo lo que es pro vida, a favor de la vida. San Juan Crisóstomo nos lo recuerda casi a manera profética: “¿Deseas honrar el cuerpo de Cristo? No lo desprecies, pues, cuando lo encuentres desnudo en los pobres, ni lo honres aquí en el templo con lienzos de seda, si al salir lo abandonas en su frío y desnudez. Porque el mismo que dijo: “esto es mi cuerpo”, y con su palabra llevó a realidad lo que decía, afirmó también: “Tuve hambre y no me disteis de comer”, y más adelante: “Siempre que dejasteis de hacerlo a uno de estos pequeñuelos, a mí en persona lo dejasteis de hacer” [. . .]. ¿De qué serviría adornar la mesa de Cristo con vasos de oro, si el mismo Cristo muere de hambre? Da primero de comer al hambriento, y luego, con lo que te sobre, adornarás la mesa de Cristo»: San Juan Crisóstomo, Homilias sobre el Evangelio de Mateo, 50, 3-4: PG 58, 508-509. — Miguel Arias, © Copyright, J. God's Irritating Call

We have all heard the expression “the truth hurts.” We usually hear it when we don’t want to accept the truth about ourselves; usually when we believe we have broken an annoying habit or grown beyond one of our idiosyncrasies, then comes a comment from a spouse, from a child, or a friend, and wham! There it is: “The truth hurts.” I have certainly been there.

The call of God can be a bit like the hurting truth. At least this is how the prophet Isaiah sees it — basically Isaiah tells us that we know the call of God is upon us when we are irritated. I guess it is a certain kind of irritation. The call of God can be something like a consistent prick in our side, a stone in our shoe, or an out of place manufacturer’s tag in our underwear; it moves us and nudges us to a certain place or space, or to take a certain action.

In the book of Genesis the call of God is certainly irritating and almost even violent. We read in the first creation story that the earth was formless and empty and that darkness was over the deep and God’s Spirit hovered over the water in darkness. Darkness! Been there? And then, God speaks, and out of God’s speaking creation happens. Creation turns out to be a changing, an altering, a birthing of something out of nothing. I can only imagine land and sky and animals and humanity being created out of nothing. It must have been mildly to highly violent.

At times, God’s call does not come to us as a whisper of sweet nothings in our ear. At times, God’s call does not come to us as a warm intuitive feeling of satisfaction or appreciation or gratitude. Rather, God’s call to us, at certain moments, comes to us as irritations, pricks in the side, flies that won’t buzz off, people and things that cannot be subdued.

Just a thought. It might benefit us to raise our spiritual antennas when we are sensing a low frequency irritation and try to think from a different perspective, for God’s uninterrupted call to us may very well be coming to us as something irritating.

“I look forward to the Resurrection”

As we pray the Nicene Creed during Mass, we state, “I look forward to the resurrection of the dead.” This Creed, written in the fourth century, is our basic statement of faith. We have an opportunity with the revised translation of The Roman Missal to ponder again what the words we proclaim every Sunday tell us about our faith and what we believe.

It may seem strange to us that one should “look forward to” any aspect of death. The phrase does not mention only death, but Resurrection. The words of the Creed suggest that we should have hope in the Resurrection of the dead.

In our colloquial speech we often hear expressions that it is God’s will that he takes life in death. When my grandfather died, about 80 percent of the people at his vigil said one of two things: 1) God must need him in heaven or 2) it is God’s will. Neither of those statements comforted me. Rather, they made me angry. Granted, I realized later that we really don’t have—colloquially—adequate words in the mystery of death. That day I asked, “Why would God want death?” “Isn’t God the Creator, the one who wants life?” Sin, death, inequity are not what God wants for human persons. God wants for us life, equity, and our participation in his very life (the opposite of sin which breaks down our communion with God). Jesus’ own death by humans was not the end. Rather, God exulted him, resurrected him. Death would not be the end, but rather the mystery of God’s gift of Resurrection.

The same holds true for us. In the accounts of the Gospel, Christ gave us hope that death would not be the end, but rather God will resurrect us, raise us up at the end times. This is, indeed, a reason for hope, a reason to “look forward to the resurrection of the dead.” Notice the words “the dead.” It is not “a dead person.” Christ will resurrect not one person, but will resurrect human persons which we know as the final judgment. Through Baptism, we entered into the communion of the Church and participation in God’s life. The communion of the Church spans time, space, and history. Baptism, this communion with the Church and with God, incorporates us with those who have gone before us throughout history and those who will be baptized that have not yet been born. Communion with God and the Church is not broken in death. Rather, throughout all of life, death, and the final Resurrection of the dead, the baptized are in communion with God and the Church. At the Resurrection of the dead, our whole beings—mind, body, and spirit—will be resurrected in order to be in total communion with God and the Church. As long as sin infects human persons, total communion cannot be possible for us with God. Sin breaks down communion. This is why we “look forward to the resurrection of the dead.” We, with hope in our good and loving God, will join the communion of saints and be in total communion with God’s very self.
